To: LucasArts

In September of 2004, LucasArts began a major restructuring project, laying off somewhere between 31-50 employees and cancelled all internal projects save for one.

Star Wars: Knights of the Old Republic 3, was one of the canceled projects.

Knights of the Old Republic 1 and 2 have won critical acclaim, including Game of the Year Awards. Both games have a very active fan community, and strong support.

In addition to record sales, Star Wars: Knights of the Old Republic received unprecedented critical acclaim. According to GameRankings.com, the game's reviews averaged 94.8%, making it the 16th best-rated game of all time, the second best game on Xbox, and the highest-rated RPG of all time across all platforms. Knights of the Old Republic 2: The Sith Lords, has also gained impressive support and fantastic reviews, averaging 86.9%. Despite the very short development cycle for Knights of the Old Republic 2, and its minor flaws, the game was still extremely well received. Story wise the game also featured a major cliffhanger.

If LucasArts do not publish the third installment, then many Star Wars fans will see this as a gaping hole in the overall saga. It will also be a huge disappointment to players of KOTOR 1 & 2, who would like nothing more than to discover the fates of Revan and the Exile.

We are confident that as a major publisher, LucasArts will realize the potential this series has to be published on the upcoming Xbox 360.

So, if you are one of those people who have spent hours, days or even weeks of their lives playing these two amazing games, please sign this petition and together we will present this matter to those associated with LucasArts. Then hopefully, Knights of the Old Republic 3, will be published and will be hugely successful.

Sincerely,
