Lucasarts teams up with Bioware Corp to develop a new game based on the Star Wars Universe. It is unknown if the game will be based on the KotOR Universe. As previously announced in news, speculation from various sources leads us to believe that KotOR3 might be an online multiplayer game. This announcement by the two companies was unclear of the game type but did mention that the new game in development "will push the boundaries of the gaming market by utilizing the strengths of both companies to deliver an innovative, high-quality experience."
